

MA NOLANS - Reassuringly Irish

IRISH PUB

It's hard to believe that just one year ago, no-one had ever heard of Ma Nolan's. Now, an integral part of the Nice nightlife scene, this Irish pub has proved a huge success in its first year of existence and now has an established following of tourists and locals and a reputation to be proud of. The concept for the bar was dreamed up by Irishman, Thady Nolan, who'd lived in Nice for several years, and had realised that the nightlife was seriously lacking. He wanted to create an Irish pub - without the usual clichés but with great food, full sports coverage and live music. Today, the bar never fails to make an impact. Located between the Nice Opera and Cours Saleya, Ma Nolan's always offers a genuinely warm Irish welcome with a large inviting terrace, high vaulted ceilings, authentic bar counters and wooden floors. Excellent food is served all day at very reasonable prices and all major sports events are shown on the four big screens. Live music plays every night until late creating a vibrant buzz around the pub, making Ma Nolan's the perfect venue for hot nights as well as chilled out days. Due to popular demand, live jazz bands now play every Sunday afternoon and with well known Irish bands such as Republic of Loose playing gigs here, Ma Nolan's is the only place to be... Come and see for yourself!
